

OMS Prayerline – Thursday, April 8, 2021

Mark and Livia Nelson, Estonia

Mark has 8 hours of teaching in the seminary on Friday and he has an earache. He has a prescription but needs God's healing touch to be able to teach all day. If he starts teaching at 8 a.m. Friday, it will be 1 a.m. in Toronto and 11 pm Thursday in Edmonton. He's teaching Apologetics, a subject that takes concentration for the teacher and the students.

Praise--Sharon Noelle, Calgary

Sharon writes:

We had an awesome Zoom appointment with the neurosurgeon this afternoon. He can not believe how well I'm healing up! I mean, I have a long road ahead of me but all will heal.

Everything is progressing well and will heal. My complete hearing loss in my right ear is permanent. (God gets the final say in that one though. 😊) The tumour is not cancerous. Of course, there is a little tumour left in there, wrapped around my ear canal in my right ear. They will forever monitor it with MRI. You know what? Most of the time, the body takes care of this. If it does not, they will blast it with radiology. He was very encouraging about the medication too. I am taking way less than other people. And they are getting me off of it as quickly as is safe. I have also slept a little last night and today. Praise God with us and keep praying for complete healing.

Colleen Taylor, Haiti

Colleen and Dave and Marilyn Graffenberger are finishing up the transfer of OMS responsibilities to Emmaus University, 4 VEH, and Emmaus Fellowship of Churches. Colleen and Graffenbergers are making plans to return to Canada / USA. Political unrest continues. Pray for Colleen and Graffenbergers as they take care of final details and make travel arrangements. Pray for Haitian leaders as they carry on the work in spite of all the obstacles.

Because Jesus lives we can face life today, tomorrow, and forever,
